All of the flowers mentioned today should be planted in rich, fluffy, well-drained soil, with a sprinkle of Bio-tone added to the hole. Take a walk in the garden and enjoy blue blooms until the first frost. Deadheading is unnecessary, but a good dose of compost or slow release fertilizer will improve bloom performance.

Did you notice the diversity of pollinators they attract? Both are great nectar sources for butterflies and hummingbirds (Monarchs included), making them an invaluable addition to the pollinator garden. All of the flowers mentioned today should be planted in rich, fluffy, well-drained soil, with a sprinkle of Bio-tone added to the hole.

What do these plants have in common? They work especially well along the border of the garden. The Blue Star Creeper is heat tolerant plant with minimal watering needs. Plant a few now and enjoy blue blooms until the first frost. Deadheading is unnecessary, but a good dose of compost or slow release fertilizer will improve bloom performance.

If you're looking for easy-care plants that reward with beautiful blooms, look no further than these favorites. They all have red flowers! It just so happens that red is the hummingbird's favorite color. Fill your backyard with crimson blooms and you'll have hummingbirds of your own to watch in no time.

New Arrival!
